DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claim 1, drawn to A recording and/or reproducing apparatus for a recording medium including a data area for storing user data and a primary spare area for defect management of the user data, allocated upon initialization of the recording medium, comprising: a controller to allocate and/or expand a supplementary spare area, after the initialization of the recording medium, in a forward direction starting from a rear portion of the data area of the recording medium, for defect management of the user data; and a pickup to record or reproduce information onto or from the disc, classified in class 714, subclass 710.
- II. Claims 2-5, drawn to A defect management method for disc recording and/or reproducing of a recording medium, the recording medium including a data area for storing user data and a primary spare area for defect management of the user data, allocated upon initialization of the recording medium, comprising: determining, after the initialization of the recording medium and prior to an allocation or expansion of a supplementary spare area of the recording medium, whether a sufficiently continuous empty area exists at the end of the data area for an allocation or expansion of the supplementary spare area, for defect management of the user data; rearranging a plurality of non-continuous areas of the recording medium to generate a new continuous empty area at the end of the data area if a sufficiently continuous empty area at the end of the user data area does not exist; and allocating the supplementary spare area in the new continuous empty area if the new continuous empty area has a sufficient amount of space for the supplementary spare area, classified in class 714, subclass 701.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions Group I and Group II are related as process (Group II) and apparatus (Group I) for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus (Group I) can be used for allocating and/or expanding a supplementary spare area in a forward direction starting from a rear portion of the data area of the recording medium, for defect management of the user data whereas the process (Group II) can be practiced in a device for rearranging a plurality of non-continuous areas of the recording medium to generate a new continuous empty area at the end of the data area if a sufficiently continuous empty area at the end of the user data area does not exist.

Art Unit: 2133

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group II is not required for Group I, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to James G. McEwen on 5/24/2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

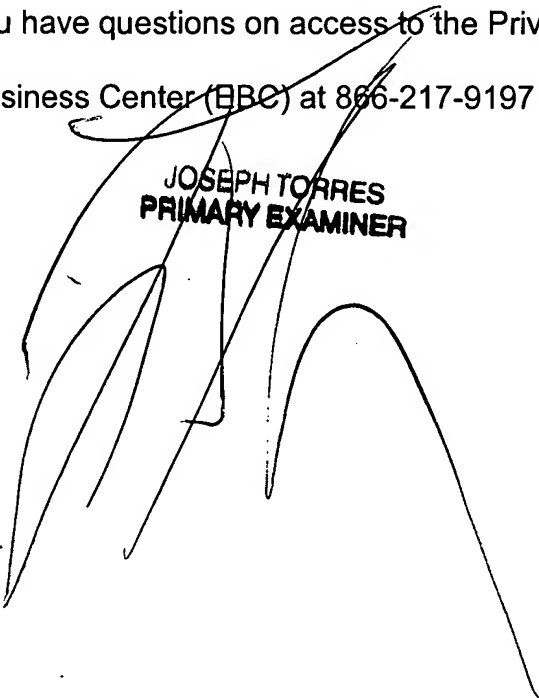

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Joseph D. Torres whose telephone number is (571) 272-3829. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 8-5.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Albert Decady can be reached on (571) 272-3819. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
